THE ADVERTISER'S SEMI-WEEKLY

A 'SMILING LAND'

I HAVE just returned from a delightful trip to Hawaii, and in considering in what ways and means I might be of use to the Association, the first thing that occurs to me is that I should advise every member of this Association to visit the Islands.

I can say without reservation that there is no more delightful experience, for not only is the Territory wonderfully beautiful, but even if it were ugly the hospitality of the people would make it seem beautiful.

It is veritably a SMILING LAND.—From letter of James Woods, President American Hotel Protective Association, to members of the Association.

Initiation of Good Roads Era

FROM a real estate standpoint, the most important event of the week, or of the year for that matter, was the beginning of the improvement of the roads of the Maunaloa district.

This is the first substantial enterprise under the new frontage tax law, under which the bulk of new street construction will be paid for by the land owners of the vicinity.

The district affected is the entire College Hills section and adjacent territory. The main roads will be of concrete, with bitulithic surface, and the side streets of asphalt-macadam. There are a little over seven miles of streets involved in the improvement and the contract price is $187,000.

The Board of Supervisors have been a long time overcoming obstacles and getting down to business in the matter of permanent improvement of the city's streets under the frontage tax law, but now that a beginning has been made, there is every indication that the Board intends to round out its term of office with an energetic prosecution of the cause of "good roads" promotion.

There are already under way, three other improvement propositions under the frontage tax law, viz: First, the "Beach Walk" improvement district, which includes all of Waikiki, makai of Kalakaua avenue, on the Ewa side of the Seaside Hotel; second, the Kalakaua avenue improvement district, which covers all of the present unimproved portion of Kalakaua avenue as far as Kapiolani Park, and third, the west end of Beretania street between Nuuanu and King streets.

Ill-judged and reactionary efforts have been made by property owners, who ought to know better, to put obstacles in the way of this most desirable reform; but the flood tide of improvement has begun to run, and it is the firm belief of the Advertiser that as soon as the community realizes what an immense and immediate improvement the frontage tax law will make in the streets of Honolulu, that all further opposition will melt away and Honolulu will blossom forth as one of the "good road sections" of the United States.

The Board of Supervisors is to be congratulated upon this initiation of a good roads era in Honolulu.

Porto Rico 'Disturbed'

THE Porto Ricans are evidently somewhat disturbed over the present situation of their own contemplated legislation in Washington and also by the contemplated purchase of the Danish West Indies. In fact, it might seem that if the purchase of the Danish West Indies is concluded in due course, it will lessen Porto Rico's conspicuity as an American West Indian possession," says the Louisiana Planter. "The many complex problems now presenting themselves in Washington will almost surely defer any particular legislation concerning Porto Rico and this is all the more probable if the contemplated purchase of the Danish West Indies is completed. In this latter event we should have quite an archipelago in the West Indies, including Porto Rico, certain interests in Haiti and all of the Danish West Indies, including St. Thomas, St. Croix and St. John.

"The Washington correspondent of the Porto Rico Progress, recognizes the difficulties in the way of congress insofar as immediate action for Porto Rico is concerned and gives some consideration to the proposed American West Indies in contradistinction to the older groups of British West Indies, Dutch West Indies and French West Indies.

"Porto Rico seems to be enjoying quite a high degree of prosperity and is congratulating itself on the fact that for the year just ending the island trade in imports and exports exceeded 100 millions of dollars. The exports, which were chiefly of sugar, reached valuations of $66,731,573, while the imports reached $38,951,166, these together exceeding 105 millions of dollars. Apart from the exports of sugars, which were valued at nearly forty-six millions of dollars, the coffee exports exceeded five millions of dollars in value, as against seven millions the year before. The cigar exports for the year amounted to five and half millions of dollars against six millions of dollars the previous year. The crops of oranges, pineapples, grapefruit, etc., in which Porto Rico should naturally excel, reach nearly three millions of dollars in value as against about the same amount the previous year."

Hughes and Maine

AS later reports concerning the sweeping Republican victory in Maine continue to come in, its significance grows. This is indeed an indication of the light in which the great body of sane-minded, clear-thinking Americans hold the Wilsonian administration. It is an omen, a forecast, to be expressed in more emphatic terms, and on a continental scale, on the seventh day of the coming November.

Two years ago the majority of the American people whatever their sympathies and beliefs, upheld the President and sincerely applauded his efforts to prevent this land being drawn into the frightful maelstrom of the European conflict. Woodrow Wilson at that time seemed to place the honor of our common country above partisan politics. Appealing to Americans as Americans, the nation was ready to stand behind him and uphold his hands, even to the point of returning to power his entire political following, for there are times in the life of a great people when the demands of patriotism and loyalty are paramount.

But instead of seizing the psychological moment to cement that unanimous expression of confidence by action along positive, definite and constructive lines Woodrow Wilson was unable to command the obedience of his own followers. The Democratic leaders by whom he had surrounded himself were men of earthy mould. They were unable to rise to sublime heights, they dragged down their eagle to the lower levels where the flesh-pots lay, and smothered him and themselves in the stinking carrion of political spoilsman, looting the public treasury, appropriating millions for greasy pork, tearing and rending the whole fabric of a tried and established government, to break it to earth.

The great silent majority of the American people, the thinking majority who speak little, read much, but act when action is required, are conservative at heart, and to that extent their steadfast support of the President, two years ago, was rightly interpreted by the Democratic party leaders. The President's advisers were mistaken, however, in assuming that the silence of the people gave consent to the insidious policy of destruction in which this congress has indulged, as regards the established order of things.

This has been their vital error, that they were unable to interpret and unwilling to accept the nation-wide voluntary expression of confidence by the American people as an attribute of patriotic devotion to the broader principles of Americanism, basic to our Republic. Looking at the situation from a purely political view they endeavored to attach the American people to the Democratic party and faith. Being of the ward politician stamp and not statesmen, they used their temporary control of congress to enact such a series of supposedly "vote-catching" measures as had not been read into the statutes during the preceding one hundred and forty years since the Union was established. The first consideration in enacting every one of the revolutionary laws foisted on the country has been, "will it win votes for the Democratic party?"

The Maine election is the first answer to this question. It is the first chance that has been given the American people to say their say—and they have spoken.

The criticism has been made many times since Charles Evans Hughes commenced his campaign that his speeches create no enthusiasm, but the American people understand him, and are convinced by the logic of his presentation of their case. He is simply one of the plain people and men believe what he says. That the great solid majority of the American people can not be bribed, bamboozled and befuddled by political sleight-of-hand work has been abundantly demonstrated in the Maine election, for every golden-tongued speaker in the Bourbon ranks was thrown into the campaign by the national Democratic managers.

On Cultivation

CULTIVATION is not for the purpose of killing weeds as most practical farmers and planters assume but to put the soil in such condition that crops can reach the plant food it contains. Hence surface shaving and mulching are taking the place of constant stirring of the surface soil wherever the practise of agriculture is on a scientific basis. This lesson has been taught to unhearing audiences even here in Hawaii where it is the habit to speak of scientific agriculture as a universal practise. The practical man cannot relinquish the old, inborn fallacy that cultivation means just killing the weeds.

Weeds must be destroyed as a matter of necessity, but it is not necessary to rip up all the delicate feeding roots the crop has sent out on a fertilizer hunt through the top four to six inches of soil. There are pineapple planters who have not yet grasped the significance of wide planting and permitting an inter crop of weeds and legumes. Fields have in some places been ruined by constant cultivation. Deep plowing and thorough preliminary preparation of the soil are worth more than fertilizers, and no fertilizer has ever been discovered or invented that will renew fields that have been wrongly handled.

There appears to be as many legal bumps in the way of good road progress in Honolulu as there are bumps in the roads themselves, and there appears to be about as much ground in reason for the one as for the other.

BREVITIES

(From Wednesday Advertiser)
Insistent demands for information regarding the Islands are flooding in upon the promotion committee, together with a host of requests for illustrated booklets and island literature generally.

Park Kyung Moon and Miss Choi Pak Nam, well known Koreans of this city, were married on Monday by Deacon John Pakk of the Episcopal Church, the witnesses being Mrs. Shin and Ahn Kuku Keyum.

Attorney General Stainback yesterday announced that the first monies to be paid from the income fund of the Territory will be for the rebuilding of the home at the Mokiki settlement, recently destroyed by fire.

Kapiolani Park attendants are mourning the death of one of the two kangaroos donated to the city recently by Joseph S. Ellis of Australia. Young Kangaroo was weaned too soon from Mamma Kangaroo, hence it died, in the belief of Mr. Ellis.

F. F. Root, city ticket agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, has written to A. B. Taylor, secretary of the promotion committee, announcing that fifteen passengers for Honolulu have been booked by the Kansas City office.

The funeral of little Bertha Blanche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Leone, of 124 Luso street, Aunani, who died on Monday, will be held today, the interment to be in the Kawaiahauna cemetery. The child was born in Kilauea, Kauai, and was only twenty-one days old.

Claiming that there is no provision in law for the transfer of the sewer system by the Territory to the local municipality, a demurrer was filed in the circuit court yesterday to the complaint in the case of the City and County of Honolulu against the Kapiolani Estate, a suit to recover on delinquent sewer rates.

(From Thursday Advertiser)
Governor Pinkham yesterday appointed E. P. Akue district magistrate of Koolahupoko and George P. Kauimakaio district magistrate of Hanalei.

An additional and final report, the fifth of a series, was filed in the circuit court yesterday by Benjamin N. Kahalepuna, master, in the matter of the estate of R. W. Cathcart, deceased. A request from the Mid Pacific Carnival for use of a portion of Kapiolani Park in Carnival week next February for staging a Hawaiian pageant, has been referred by the supervisors to the park committee.

Separate answers were filed in the circuit court yesterday by the defendants F. S. Lyman, Jr., and the Bishop Trust Company to the complaint in the case of R. W. Holt against C. J. Wheeler and others.

The tenth divorce case for the month, Yuhachi Asagi against Waki Aangi, desertion charged, was filed in the circuit court yesterday. Since the first of the year 218 suits for divorce have been instituted in Honolulu.

Judge Ashford yesterday ordered that service of the papers in the divorce case of Charles W. Alden against Mrs. Minnie Alden might be made on the libellee in San Francisco by any citizen twenty-one years or more of age. The case has been set for trial on November 1.

Mrs. Cecilia Kaimio, of Prospect avenue, Aunani, died yesterday and will be buried at eleven o'clock this morning, the funeral being from St. John's church, Kilauea, to the Catholic cemetery, King street. The deceased was a native of Waikiki, Maui, and twenty-three years and thirteen days old.

The department of public works will begin work immediately on the grading of three trails in Hawaii. The first is from the beach to the Opihikon homesteads to give the homesteaders facilities for transporting their produce; the second, from the main Kalaniana'olaha road to the Kilauea homestead, and the third to the Kano homesteads.

(From Friday Advertiser)
William J. Goolbsy, one time senator and now with the territorial land office is now a legal resident and voter of Honolulu. He registered yesterday in the city clerk's office, thereby changing his official residence from Maui to the city.

The officers of the Koolau Railway Company were selected yesterday at a meeting held in the Kapiolani building, King street. Annual reports showing the business of the company to be in prosperous condition, were read and approved.

Application for a passport was filed in the office of the clerk of the federal court yesterday by Young Chong Kong who was born at Knaelaen, near Hevia island, on March 11, 1883. He intends leaving on a visit to China in the Nippon Maru tomorrow.

The Illustrated World, published in Chicago, has written to A. P. Taylor secretary of the promotion committee, asking for pictures and cuts to be run with an article on game fishing in Hawaii, which is to appear in the magazine soon. Mr. Taylor is sending the material desired.

Mrs. Kaihai Hoonia of this city died yesterday in the Queen's Hospital. Funeral services will be held at one-thirty this afternoon in Williams' undertaking parlors, intent to be in the Loeh View cemetery, Pearl City. Mrs. Hoonia was a native of Hawaii and fifty-three years old.

Declaration of his intention to become a naturalized citizen of the United States was filed by Alfred George Paget yesterday in the office of the clerk of the federal court. Mr. Paget is a cable operator and resides at the Pierpoint, Waikiki. He was born in Canoe, Nova Scotia, Canada, on October 18, 1887.

QUEEN IS INVITED

TO SAN DIEGO FAIR

Liliuokalani Receives Engrossed Bid To Be Present At Great Balboa Celebration

The Pan-Pacific Club is getting ready for its celebration of Balboa Day on Monday, September 25. Word has just been received from San Diego that great preparations are being made to celebrate the day at the exposition there, and a formal invitation to Queen Liliuokalani to be present was received from President Davidson in yesterday's mail and forwarded to the Queen.

In Honolulu, the celebration will begin with the Pan-Pacific reception given by Richard H. Trent, Saturday afternoon on Alewa Heights. On Sunday, there will be a special Pan-Pacific service in one of the churches, which will be addressed by leading men of several Pacific nationalities. The club will also entertain seventy-five students from the indemnity College of Peking. For Monday, arrangements have been made with the board of education to have short talks given in all the public schools by the Pan-Pacific workers of different nationalities, who will tell the children something about Balboa and his discovery of the Pacific, as well as the objects of the Hands Around-the-Pacific Movement, to get all races and peoples of the Pacific to work for the welfare of each other.

In the afternoon, the flag presentation of last year probably will be repeated. At any rate, the motion picture film of last year's celebration, which is an excellent one, will be shown at the Pan-Pacific banquet in the games hall of the Y. M. C. A., this being the largest room that could be secured, and even then it will be necessary to limit the places at the tables to four hundred. There will be tables for those who have lived in Alaska, Canada, Washington, Oregon, California, the Latin-American countries of the Pacific, Hawaii, Siberia, Korea, Japan, China, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, and the South Sea Islands, and it is requested that those from these countries who wish to attend the annual Pan-Pacific dinner, call up the Pan-Pacific Club members (phone 2089), and have their names registered. On Tuesday, the twenty-sixth, the Pan-Pacific Industrial and Commercial Museum, over Castle & Cooke, will be formally opened with a reception to the returning delegates from the Hilo convention.

BROKEN HEADS ARE

MENED BY WOMEN

OUT AT SCHOFIELD

But There Has Not Been a Skirmish Or Free For-All Fight At the Post

TRAINING IN RED CROSS WORK IS BACK OF IT ALL

Examinations Taken Yesterday For Certificates From the National Society

Sixty earnest students equipped with lint and roller bandages, with splints and square bandages, busily bound up broken heads, spliced fractured legs, supported injured arms and shoulders, and gave aid to many other hurts at the Post Hospital, Custer, Tuesday.

Schofield Barracks has not been the scene of a skirmish nor a free-for-all. The ministrations were for imaginary injuries, and the occasion was the first day's work of a two-days' examination for the pupils of Major Bloombergh's class in first aid, elementary hygiene and home care of the sick. Miss Dever, head nurse of the Children's Hospital in Honolulu, had charge of the examinations, which consisted of practical demonstrations by the students of the first aid and of the methods employed in the home care of the sick. Troubled pillows were smoothed, fevers allayed, sprains poulticed, the sick-room cleaned and ventilated, and the enthusiastic nurses-to-be emerged from it all flushed but triumphant.

Will Hear from Washington

Yesterday they took the final examinations, which were written. The results will not be known until the papers can be forwarded to the central office of the American Red Cross Society, under whose auspices the class has been laboring. As these offices are in Washington, it will be some time before the students will be able to receive their certificates. These sheepskins will certify the fitness of the holders to be regularly employed by the National Red Cross Society and their eligibility to participate in any relief work undertaken by that organization.

The zeal of the women of this class in working to qualify for future usefulness in a field that may some day require all the workers that can possibly be secured, even as they are now being needed in battle-scarred Europe, can not be too highly commended. Many of the students have given up summer vacations to study and prepare themselves for the examinations that are now being held. For three months they have held themselves to the task in hand with fidelity to the service for which they have resolved to qualify. The gratitude of all who may one day become the beneficiaries of their devotion is their just due and their well-deserved meed.

Mrs. McIntyre Class President

Mrs. Augustine McIntyre the president of the class, and Mrs. Charles R. Lloyd, the secretary and treasurer, deserve great credit for their efforts in organizing the class and for their activity in forwarding its interests. Maj. Horace D. Bloombergh, Medical Corps, gave freely of his time and attention in conducting the classes during the earlier stages and in careful supervision and direction of its work through out the entire period of its studies.

LOWEST BID FOR MAHUKA SITE FIXED AT $200,000

Customs Collector Will Disregard Upset Figure Set By Congress

No bid of less than $200,000 for the Mahuka site will be considered by Maholua A. Franklin, collector of customs. Although the upset price as fixed in the bill as passed by Congress was $165,000, the notice of sale as received from Washington gives $200,000 and by this latter Mr. Franklin said he would be guided. The increase was made because of the rise in values, Mr. Franklin said.

Authority was received from Washington yesterday to hold the sale October 21, as Mr. Franklin requested Tuesday.

Original instructions were that there should be two months' advertisement, but Mr. Franklin wished to hold the sale before departing for the States November 1.

ASKS PERMISSION TO SELL REAL ESTATE

Sarah K. Wright, administratrix of the estate of Henry Wright, deceased, filed in the circuit court yesterday a petition for permission to sell two acres of land at Mokuaia, Kalihi, from the proceeds of which she desires to pay claims against the estate aggregating $410.50. The petition will be heard on October 6.

TREATMENT FOR DYSENTERY.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil will effectually cure the most stubborn case of dysentery. It is especially good for summer diarrhoea in children. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.
